

Arum salad bowl £15

It's never crossed my mind to put salad in my salad bowl. I'm not sure why.
All I know is that it's always been used for something else.
I've kept my car keys in there. Fruit.
Remote controls. Even my con's toy soldiers lived in there a while.
But never salad.

Massello table £499-£849

A very good friend of ours has this same table. Chairs too. So he'd be extremely put out if he knew we had it. The good thing is, we've got a great table. The bad thing is, I can't invite my friend round to the house anymore.

Daborn chair £599

It doesn't take much, maybe only a few spots, but when it's raining outside you'll find me relaxing in my chair, gazing out the window. It's the perfect place to sip warm hot chocolate, read my book and ignore the ever-growing pile of washing up.

L'air lamp £45

My brother bought me this out of guilt. He knocked over my old lamp and broke it. So I told him about this fantastic lamp I'd seen in habitat. What I didn't tell him was that I'd already broken the lamp two days before. Especially when he gave me the new one.

Steep vase £49

I like having branches and flowers in vases all over my home. It feels good to have nature close by. And I love this vase. It has an organic simplicity about it that is perfect for bringing out natural beauty.
